

Residential Design Services

Project Types

We love and believe in what we do, and because of this, we don't think of any potential opportunity as too small or too large. We are as adept at handling new construction projects as we are addition and renovation projects. Listed below are some examples of the spectrum of projects we welcome:

- Smaller projects: Fences, decks, and single room renovations.
- Midsized projects: Larger additions or major interior or exterior renovations.
- Large projects: New homes, cottages, and second residences.
- Planning projects: Planned communities and neighborhoods.

Service Options

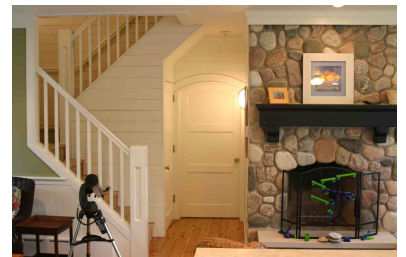

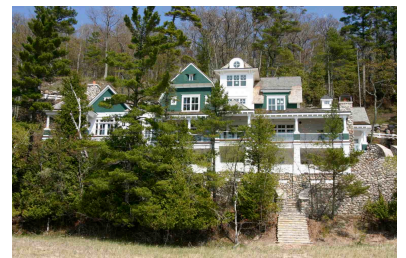

No one comes to an architect or designer with exactly the same vision or goals for their project. Recognizing that, we listen carefully to our clients and engage them in conversation about what is right for them. Our involvement can take one of the following basic forms, noting that there is a great deal of flexibility possible within each group:

Consultations

We offer a range of hourly consultation options. It may be as simple as a two-hour brainstorming session, or it may be ongoing consultations continuing over the life of a two-year project. These consultations can take place at any time during the design phase or the construction process, in the office or in the field.

Full Service

Full Service covers the full scope of the project, from deciding of a potential home site through move-in day. It includes all aspects of design, from engineering to architecture to interior design.
